About the Presenters

Stephanie Altman, J.D., is the Assistant Director of Health Care Justice at the Sargent Shriver National Center on Poverty Law and specializes in Medicaid, Medicare, and health insurance issues. She represents children and adults in individual and class actions related to health care equity and also advocates for quality, accessible health care through administrative and legislative avenues. Stephanie co-authored “Medical Assistance Programs in Illinois” and the “Illinois Medical Assistance Action Plan” and conducts presentations and trainings on Medicaid and other health related topics for family and community groups, for medical providers and hospital staff, and for the legal profession. Prior to Shriver, she was the Programs and Policy Director at Health & Disability Advocates. Prior to HDA, she was an Assistant Professor of Clinical Practice at the Chicago-Kent College of Law, specializing in health and disability law, and a staff attorney with the Legal Assistance Foundation of Chicago.

Kathy Chan is the Director of Policy for Cook County Health & Hospital System where she provides leadership on policy activities and initiatives for the nation’s third largest public hospital system, which includes two hospitals, 16 health centers, an HIV/AIDS specialty clinic, correctional health services at the county jail and juvenile detention center, and the Cook County Department of Public Health. Previously, Kathy was the Associate Director and Director of Policy and Advocacy for EverThrive Illinois (formerly the Illinois Maternal and Child Health Coalition), where she worked for over ten years. She led advocacy and government relations strategies for the organization and also served as the lead staff person on issues related to the Affordable Care Act. From 2002-2006, Kathy staffed EverThrive Illinois’ Covering Kids and Families Project, where she built statewide and local coalitions and created and implemented strategies to help families more easily access public health insurance programs. Her efforts helped Illinois gain recognition as a national leader in outreach and enrollment.

Lorrie Rickman Jones, Ph.D., was appointed by Governor Quinn to serve as the Senior Policy Advisor for Behavioral Health in February, 2013. As the Governor’s Senior Policy Advisor, Dr. Rickman Jones is responsible for creating, directing and overseeing behavioral health policy development across state agencies consistent with the Governor’s major policy goals and national best practices. Prior to this appointment, Dr. Rickman Jones served as the Director of the Division of Mental Health (DMH), Illinois Department of Human Services from 2005 to 2013 with responsibility for the strategic management and operations of 9 state psychiatric hospitals and for establishing mental health policy and funding services in the community system of care serving over 200,000 individuals. During her tenure, Dr. Rickman Jones demonstrated a track record of achievement that included the successful engineering of finance reform in the community system of care, improving the standard of care in the state operated hospitals, and expanding the use of evidence-based practices across the service delivery system. Recently, she developed the implementation strategy that has led the successful implementation of Illinois’ Olmstead cases involving moving thousands of persons with mental illnesses from nursing homes to the community. In addition, Dr. Rickman Jones led the successful redesign of the crisis care systems in two regions of the state following the closure of two state psychiatric hospitals.

Captain Jim Lando, M.D., M.P.H., F.A.C.P.M., is a U.S. Public Health Service Commissioned Corps Officer who serves as the Regional Health Administrator (RHA) for the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Office of the Assistant Secretary for Health. He oversees Region V which includes IL, IN, MI, MN, OH and WI, home to over one-sixth of the U.S. population. Captain Lando serves as the principal federal public health leader, representing the Assistant Secretary for Health and provides executive level leadership in policy development, planning, implementation, and evaluation of public health programs. Captain Lando is a graduate of the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention’s (CDC) Epidemic Intelligence Service, where he was assigned to the National Center for Health Statistics. Captain Lando directed the CDC Preventive Medicine residency program before being named the Deputy Associate Director for Science for the National Center for Chronic Disease Prevention and Health Promotion. He later led the National Center for Environmental Health’s Health Studies Branch, investigating environmental hazards and their effects on human health. For the past five years, he has worked as a Career Epidemiology Field Officer in the CDC Office of Public Health Preparedness and Response assigned to the Allegheny County Health Department in Pittsburgh, PA.

Tony Paulauski is a graduate of Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, where he majored in Special Education. Tony has been a high school Special Education teacher and was an Executive Director of a local Arc of Illinois chapter for 21 years. Tony solidified his position as a leading advocate and accepted the position of Executive Director at The Arc of Illinois in 1991. The Arc of Illinois is a not-for-profit organization which advocates on behalf of individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities. Through the years, Tony has made it his priority, and that of The Arc Board Members, to educate and inform as many people as possible on the importance of issues such as providing inclusive community supports for individuals with developmental disabilities, ending the wait for community supports and turnover of direct care staff. Tony is considered, both state-wide and nationally, a strong advocate for people with developmental disabilities and their families. He is a registered lobbyist with the State of Illinois and produces a daily news blog on disability issues which is widely read by advocates. His writings are also available on The Arc website, www.thearcofil.org. Tony can frequently be heard speaking at State and National seminars and conventions, reminding caregivers, families and legislators what’s most important in providing services for individuals with disabilities: community inclusion, independence and choice.

Charles W. Watkins is a Regional Outreach Coordinator for Get Covered Illinois-The Official Health Marketplace, and is responsible for coordinating, supporting and managing all consumer outreach, education and enrollment initiatives and activities related to the Illinois implementation of the Affordable Care Act (ACA) in the Chicago-South Region. Having spent much of his career at institutions of higher education, and non-profit organizations that serve under-resourced populations, Watkins has a deep understanding of the needs of students, families and senior citizens. Watkins has also worked on a number of political and issue advocacy campaigns, serving in such roles as Community Organizer, Volunteer Coordinator, Field Organizer and Strategy Advisor.
